TO SHUT BLAINE OUT. Capitalists With Foreign Interests Op-

It was current rumor around the capitol to day that a new opposition to Blaine as a cabinet officer has arisen. It can be found among the New York importers and among the capitalists who have foreign interests. These are the same men who, in 1884, openly voted for Cleveland because they disapproved of Blaine's South American policy. They claim that the presence of Blaine in the cabinet as Secretary of State would unsettle business to a very considerable extent. Gen. Harrison has, it is said, been informed of this opposition, and when Senator Hiscock was in Indianapolis they talked the matter over. Boston and Philadelphia importers are said to have joined hands with their New York brethren in the endeavor to shut Blaine out of President Harrison's political family.

THE CASE OF GEN. SWAIM. Efforts to Secure His Pardon from the

The friends of Gen. Swaim are more hopeful of securing his pardon by the President. His friends generally contend that his conviction by court-martial was not warranted. But, laying aside this, the curious state of affairs caused by his suspension for twelve years, which permits of no one being appointed to the judge advocate generalship of the army and yet leaves that position unoccupied, requires that something should be done in the matter. If Gen. Swaim continues under sentence for the full term of twelve years the office must be vacant that long. Several conferences have been held with the President on the subject. Sat-urday Senator Voorhees, Judge Montgomery and Representatives Butterworth and Grosand Representatives Butterworth and Gros-venor had a long talk with the President, and though he gave them no assurances of any sort they hope that he will grant the pardon. It is thought that the pardon will be granted, and that Gen. Swaim will then be retired and an appointment be made to the position of judge

The President to-day commuted the sentences in the case of Louis Burrow, convicted in the western district of Arkansas of murder, and ney who officiated upon the trial of this convict that his punishment should be commuted from death to imprisonment for life. * * I think, considering all the circumstances and the death to imprisonment for life. I think, considering all the circumstances and the fact that the prisoner has already suffered quite a long confinement in jail, that his sentence should be commuted to imprisonment for the term of ten years. Let this be done."

In the case of Sorter, the endorsement is as follows: "The sentence in this case is commuted to imprisonment for life in accordance with the apparent view of the district-attorney and the recommendation of the attorney-general and recommendation of the attorney-general and the jury who found the verdict of guilty of murder. I am of the opinion that this commutation is the utmost clemency which should be extended in this case in any event or at any time."

AT THE CAPITOL TO-DAY.

THE STRUGGLE IN THE HOUSE Another Day Wasted in Fillibustering.

THE TARIFF BILL IN THE SENATE.

The House amendments to the Nicaragua canal bill were, on motion of Mr. Sherman, non-concurred in, and a conference was asked. Senators Sherman, Edmunds, and Morgan were appointed conferees on the part of the Senate. House bill for the relief of the Albemarle and Chesapeake canal company was reported back favorably from the committee on naval affairs and was placed on the calendar. THE TARIFF BILL TAKEN UP.

The Senate at 12:20 resumed consideration of the tariff bill, the pending question being on Mr. Vance's amendment that the duty on no shall exceed 50 per cent ad valorem.

THE SILK CLAUSE. Schedule K (wool and the manufactures of over informally and schedule L (silk and silk goods) was taken up.

MR. WANAMAKER'S SUIT. Mr. Vest interrupted the reading at paragraph 375, in relation to velvets and plushes (including ribbons), and asked whether that contention was that ribbons came in under another clause in regard to trimmings for bonnets, which paid a less duty. He saw by to-day's papers that the suit had been decided in favor of Mr. Wanamaker, and that an appeal had been taken to the Supreme Court. He had also seen it stated that Mr. Wanamaker was manufacturing such goods in Berlin, although he was one of the most distinguished advocates of American labor and American workingmen, Mr. Aldrich stated that the suit referred to was in reference to the proper construction of paragraph 448 in Schedule N of existing law. The defect in existing law was radically cured by the substitute.

On motion of Mr. Aldrich, paragraph 375 was amended by striking out the words "weighing not less than one ounce nor more than eight ounces per square yard." IN THE INTEREST OF THE POOR. Mr. Vest said he had not thought proper to object to the paragraphs increasing the existing rates on silk goods, because they were luxuries, and his sympathies in the entire matter were with the poorer classes. He beas lightly as possible on the poorer people and should be imposed on those who are able and willing to bear them.

idea of the Senate bill.

Mr. Vest—I do not accept that statement at ill. I believe that the bill is in the interest of the manufacturers, without regard to the interest of the consumers. Mr. Vest sent to the clerk's desk and had read a newspaper interview with one of the largest corset manufacturers in New York to show

HOW THE TARIFF PINCHED. He said that an approximate estimate of the changes proposed in the substitute showed an increase of revenue to the amount of a million dollars; and that that was in the interest of manufacturers alone.

Mr. Aldrich stated that the silk schedule had been prepared at the Treasury Department by Treasury experts, and was intended to be (except in regard to silk corsets) simply a transation of the existing ad valorem rates into specific or compound rates. House of Representatives.

DILATORY PROCEEDINGS RENEWED TO-DAY.

That Mr. Weaver (Iowa.) is earnest in his in tention to do all in his power to prevent the House from accomplishing any business until it has finally acted upon the Oklahoma bill was demonstrated this morning. Immediately after the chaplain's prayer, Mr. Weaver called the Speaker's attention to the first rule of the House, which directs that officer, after calling the House to order, "to cause, upon the appear-ance of a quorum, the journal of the last day's sitting to be read." He raised the point of order that the journal could not be read until it was apparent that a quorum was in attend appointed tellers and stood opposite each other as the members lazily passed between them.

Mr. Reed (Me.). sarcastically asked (having in mind the speech made by Mr. Crisp against the proposition of the committee on rules to change the rules) whether the gentleman from Georgia knew of anything else that could be done to protect the rights of the minority?

Mr. Crisp pleasantly responded that the gentleman group. Mr. Crisp pleasantly responded that the gen-tleman from Georgia had said nothing to indi-

"How does the minority feel about it?"
queried Mr. Payson (Ills.), addressing himself Mr. Weaver.

Mr. Weaver-This is A FIGHT FOR THE RIGHTS OF THE MAJORITY.

It took the House a quarter of an hour to determine that it did not desire a recess until 2:30, and then Mr. Weaver presented it with an opportunity to express its will relative to a reis he proceeded with the count. At 1:40 it was evident that a quorum could not be secured to decide the question of taking a recess until 1:30 and a call of the House was

GEN. WEAVER IS MASTER.

He will Allow the House to do Nothing Until a Quorum is Present. Gen. Weaver has the House in his power, at east for the present. He stopped the reading of the journal immediately after prayer this morning until a quorum should be found present, and not one step of progress has been made since. When, at 1:30 o'clock, Mr. Crisp and Gen. Weaver were standing as tellers looking for a quorum, the House having got no further than "Amen" to the chaplain's prayer, Mr. Reed got up very seriously and asked Mr. Crisp for information as to the rights of minority. Mr. Crisp opposed the change of the rest of the House behind him, so fast that they cannot move.

Mr. Anderson, of Kansas, who was the filibuster against Oklahoma, and who led the obstructionists against the change of rules, is now violently opposed to filibustering. He was expressing his indignation to-day at the action of one man in obstructing the will of the House.

"But," said a fellow member, "you were doing the same thing but yesterday."

"Yes," Mr. Anderson replied, his brow darkening a little, "Yes, but I'm afraid it has got into bad hands this time."

Gen, Weaver says that not a thing shall be done until he gets what he considers pair play. The appropriation bills, he says, shall not pass until then.

Mr. Randall says that when the appropriation bills come along the Ohlahoma folks will have to clear the track.

The friends of the Oklahoma bill have made up their minds that no business shall be transacted until this bill is voted on or until a day for the vote is set. Yesterday afternoon the Smalls-Elliott contested election case was called up, but it was at once antagonized by the Oklahoma bill, and the rest of the day to the hour of adjournment was wasted in filibustering. Having failed to secure a change in the rules so as to place some restrictions on the power of obstructionists the Oklahoma folks are going to try giving the House an exhibition of the John Wanamaker, of Philadelphia, and the government. He said that Mr. Wanamaker's through the House. None of the appropriation bills from the other committees have passed. The military, the navy, the post-of-fice, and Indian bills have not yet been reported to the House. The navy bill has not even been reported to the full committee.

FATE OF THE APPROPRIATION BILLS. But the appropriation bills on the calendar now could easily occupy the House until the others are ready, and if acted on as promptly as were those that have already been considered, there would be no difficulty in passing all in season to give the Senate plenty of time on them. These threatened delays by filibusterng, however, make it look extremely doubt-

The extra session sentiment is very strong among the republicans, as has already been made apparent. They expect the Fifty-first Congress to be called together in April or May lieved that the burdens of taxation should fa'l bility upon this House it would be made more anyhow, but if they could charge the responsibility upon this House it would be made more easy for them. This fact, together with the general feeling of disgust on the part of Mr. Reed and his associates at the failure of the committee on rules' resolution, will be calculated to make them anything but anxious to Mr. Allison-That is the general purpose and help the democratic party out of the difficulty. If that party suffers from the minority power they have decided to uphold. Mr. Reed will not feel it his duty to come to their relief. If an extra session is made necessary by filibustering it will cause him no concern.

AGAINST THE SUGAR TRUST.

Judge Barrett Renders a Decision in Favor of the State of New York. New York, Jan. 9.-Judge Barrett, in the supreme court circuit to-day, rendered a decision in favor of the attorney-general and against the sugar trust. The suit was brought by the people of the state of New York against the North River sugar refining company by At-torney-General Tabor to forfeit the charter of the North River company of this city on the ground that it had virtually passed out of existence by selling out all its stock to the sugar istence by selling out all its stock to the sugar trust combinations and closing up all its works. The action was brought by Attorney-General Tabor for the forfeiture and dissolution of the charter of the North river sugar refining company because it had exceeded its powers and franchises in becoming a member of the sugar trust. Judge Barrett's opinion is a most exhaustive one, and is probably the most important that has ever been written upon the subject of trusts and monopolies. Judge Barrett to-day summoned the counsel on both sides before him and a juror whose duty it was to merely formally render a verdict in accordance with the decision of the court. Counsel for defendants took an exception to the ruling for defendants took an exception to the ruling of the court.

POINTS FROM THE DECISION. In his decision Judge Barrett says: "It did not require the astute mind that prepared this most original instrument to conceive that an aggregation of partnerships, with the dangers resulting from death and the exercise of indiresulting from death and the exercise of indi-vidual power, would never effect safe and per-manent cohesion. Accordingly, we find, as one of the first provisions of the deed and as the basis of the so-called trust structure, a condition in substance that the partnerships shall all be turned into corporations. This in fact was done, and thus several of these corporawas done, and thus several of these corpora-tions were organized for the express purpose of creating the very shares of capital stock through which the combination was to be formed. Partners took on corporation garb, became shareholders, and as such fitted themselves to enter the combination within the terms of the deed."

Regarding the profits arising from the busi-

Regarding the profits arising from the business of each corporation "to be paid over by it to the board hereby created, and the aggregate of said profits or such amounts as may be designated for dividends, shall be proportionately distributed by said board, at such time as it may determine to the holders of the certificates issued by said-board for capital stock as hereinbefore provided," Judge Barrett says: "It will be seen that these dividends are not to be declared or distributed upon the aggregate capital stock of the corporations, which is to be turned over to and held by the trustees, but upon what might not inaptly, in view of these peculiar facts, be termed the trust boards' capital stock, namely, the trust certificates. Thus we have a series of corporations existing and transacting business under the forms of law without real membership or genuinely qualified direction—mere abstract the forms of law without real membership or genuinely qualified direction—mere abstract fragments of statutory creation—without life in the conceit or underlying association. Every share of stock has been practically surrendered and vital membership resigned. With the transfer to the eleven trustees the shareholders cease to occupy the position of "ceistius que trustent, with regard to the directors of the various corporationa."

Speaking of the scope of the examination the judge says: "But they did not stop there. Provision is made for the gathering in of every other existing refinery (in every instance to be incorporated), and in fact
